28 Apr 1866 Spanish Line Steamers in the Antilles (carrying mails) [Gleaner 1 Jun 1 1866]

SHIPPING NOTICES

May 5, 1866.

Additional Steam Communication to Jamaica.

SPANISH LINE OF STEAMERS IN THE ANTILLES,

(Carrying Mails.)

ONE of the splendid Steamships of the above line will call at Kingston, Jamaica, monthly. The Ships of this Company are seventeen in number, all first class vessels with ample capacity for freight and magnificent accommodation for passengers.

The vessels to arrive at this port will leave and arrive from, and at her several destinations as follows:—

HAVANA.—Leave on the 22nd, of each month.

TRUXILLO.—Arrive and leave on 25th of each month.

NICARAGUA.—Arrive and leave on 27th of each month.

COLON.—Arrive on 29th, and leave on 1st of each month.

KINGSTON, (Jamaica).—Arrive and leave on 4th of each month. [Should circumstances render it necessary, the stay of the steamer in this port will be prolonged.]

ST. JAGO DE CUBA.—Arrive and leave on 4th of each month.

NUEVITAZ.—Arrive and leave on 7th of each month.

HAVANA.—Arrive on the 9th of each month.

The present route and period of arrivals and departures may be varied, and other ports may be included if found necessary; in which event due notice to the public will be given.

Shippers of Merchandise by THIS LINE to St. Jago de Cuba, and other Spanish ports, will have secured to them great advantages in large deductions of imposts in consequence of these ships flying the Spanish flag.

This line connects at Havana with large and powerful Steamers to New York and New Orleans.

For further particulars, rates of Freight and Passage, apply to SAN Pelayo, Pardo & Co., and Ramon Herrera, Directors, Havana, or here to NUNES BROS, Agents.
