9 Oct 1944; Introduction of Air Letter [Gleaner 9 Oct 1944]

LIGHT -WEIGHT AIR LETTERS

A special service of lightweight "air letters" available for communication (1) with personnel of His Majesty's Forces and merchant ships in all countries to which an air mail service is available and (2) with , civilian addresses in certain of those countries only, has been announced by the Postmaster General of Britain. It is believed that a similar service may be introduced In Jamaica but it is not yet known when this will take place.

Particulars of the service Issued in a British Post Office Circular, show that air letters will normally be conveyed by air throughout to the country of destination, but where all-air transmission is not possible, air letters are sent by the quickest available route.

The air letter must be written on a special form which will be available, in countries where the service is in operation, from any Post Office, price 6d., including postage. The air letter when folded and sealed. form a closed communication designed to conserve aircraft capacity; no other type of form can be accepted, and nothing may he enclosed, otherwise the letter will be sent by ordinary mail.
