1965; Revocation of Forces Rates [Gleaner 5 July 1965]

Postal
exemptions,
special rates
formally revoked

Several legal provisions which gave low rates and exemptions for the payments of postage to the British armed forces personnel formerly stationed in Jamaica, and to the Cayman Islands and British West Indies have been revoked.

The provisions revoked under a special proclamation published in the Jamaica Gazette supplement included exemptions for the payments of postage rates by members of British Naval Forces, the Army, the British West Indies special rate of postage, and the Cayman Islands special rates of postage.

Mr. Winston G. Brown, acting Postmaster General, said on Saturday that the provisions were revoked as they no longer applied. New regulations for postage had already been in force for some time.

He said that the revocation of the old laws was only a legal procedure.
